Testimonial

You saved my life. Literally. I had a catastrophic riding accident two years ago where I fractured my skull, broke my C1 in two places, and broke four thoracic vertebrae. Fortunately, all mended well and I'm 100% again. However; doctors ordered absolutely no more riding as I would not be lucky the next time. Did I listen? No. What I did do is order the Hit Air vest (it's the only way my husband would let me on the horse again). The advanced technology and the clear descriptions made me trust in this equipment... I was literally betting my life on it.

Well yesterday, a stupid armadillo decided to run out and under my horse. You can image the results. Yes, I went off. I was lying on the ground watching my mare take off for home when I realized that not only wasn't I dead, but nothing hurt!! I got up, did an internal check, did a happy dance and took off after the horse. Yes, she's fine too.

Thank you, thank you, thank you!!!

Being able to ride keeps me sane. Being able to ride securely keeps my family sane.

Note about the sizing label and sizing chart

These vests are sold internationally so they include the sizes for each major market, the Japanese, European and USA market. So ignore the two top sizes on the label and look only at the bottom size which is applicable to the USA market.

If you look only at the "EU US" size at the bottom of the tag and understand that the vests are adjustable over their respective range to fit a person whose height, chest size and waist size fall within the individual sizes.

For example, by the chart you are a "Large" size, that means your range is "From Small to XLarge". This range shows as "Medium" at the top of the label. See pictures below.
