Trail description:	The trails at West Branch are moderate to challenging depending on the time of year and weather conditions. They can be anywhere from 30% - 100% muddy throughout the year. Because of the clay base, some hills become very slick with the least bit of moisture. All the trails have some mud holes on them even at the driest times. Some trails go through boggy areas that are not recommended during wet weather. Trails at this time are poorly marked which we hope to take care of this year. Some trails run along an active railroad line with trains going by about every 20 – 30 minutes. Although the trails on the west side of Rocksprings Rd. are open to hunting, we have never had a problem with any hunters. The scenery is a combination of open fields, hardwood/conifer forest and swamps.
